

While the below list is not exhaustive, this encompasses ByNature's preferred species of indoor plants that can be use for most indoor spaces. Additional species can also be sourced.

Each plant in this list has details regarding the lighting and water requirements to help guide you in the plant selection for your specific location. The notes detail the sizes in which each species is usually available. In the horticultural industry, plants are categorized by the size of the pot or container they are grown in. Such as a 4" plant is a plant grown in a container with a 4" diameter, a 1-gallon plant is grown in a 1-gallon container and so on. Depending on your project, you may require plants of a specific size. For indoor planters, we usually advice 2/3 gallons (12") up to 14" and 17" pots.

Plant availability is subject to change and changes daily.

GROUND COVER ROCKS

Rocks can be chosen as a ground cover and they prevent the evaporation of water!

While not exhaustive, this is a selection of our most popular colors and the different types can be mixed together.

Note: If you prefer a greener ground cover, you may select one of our ground cover plants from the above.
